"SMITH" - (LOVETT)

Yes, I do know one other thing. Old Lancaster Lovett must have had more than one wife. You remember I gave you his age, and the fact that when he died his wife was Ann. Well, much earlier his wife was Bathsheba. This was in 1643, "A" P.264.

Abd. in 1727 Richard Smith of Norfolk Town made a will; he had four daughters, Grace, Martha, Yates and Patience. He speaks of lands in Dorsetshire, England, and Island of Portland. This is one generation, may be two, later than your Peter Smith and his sister Ec.. It may serve to get their English connection.

Anne Newton, widow of Lemuel Newton of Princess Anne, John Whiddon, who formerly married Elizabeth Nicholas, deceased, sister to the said Ann Newton, convey to Robert Blaws, whereon Captl. John Nicholas deceased lived and died, the father of the said Ann and Elizabeth, being the only children and heirs of the deceased father Capt. John Nicholas.

Deed is signed by Ann Newton, John Whiddon and Mary Whiddon his wife.

You may add that Abigail Church was daughter of Richard Church. I'll give reference in next letter.

There is a Nicholas line which runs back to Malachy Thurston and Thomas Butt. This Butt was a Burgess. I do not know how that line links into Capt. John Nicholas, nor do we know whether your Ann Whiddon is daughter by wife Elizabeth Nicholas, or by wife Mary Corprew.

The John Whiddon Jr. who married Ann Herbert is a collateral, of course, being a brother to Ann, who married first Peters, then Camp.

He fulfilled the various duties of life with exemplary fidelity - as a husband, father, friend and neighbor; he was affectionated and kind - as a Christian, in communion with the Episcopal Church, he was sincere and devoted - as a member of society the warm attachment of his fellow citizens attests the value of his example." So far as I have hunted, this is what I have. There may be an item or so duplicated in previous reports, but in at least the instance of the Stripplehill (from whence I am sure yours comes) each account adds something.

I am sorry you do not feel that you can go on with the study. With so much of the territory covered, with the very good clue that he came from a prominent family from a nearby county, with the same tradition of the Richmond branch of the family, which can prove it came from the Gloucester branch, with the seeming closing in of George W. and John, and the ability to eliminate certain Johns because you know yours was 67 years old in October 1835, it seems to me, that at some future date when you have the desire to go ahead, you perhaps will find an answer. I certainly hope so.

Sincerely yours,

Sadie Scott Kellam

May 6, 1935

Dear Maj. Shepherd,

I came immediately home from our conference and wrote Miss Redstone. I believe I covered all the points in the Shepherd noted we had that gave any clue as to the English connection. I had also the Waltham fact, and there is something of the father and son in Northampton, but as I told you, I only remained there two days and I spent all my time getting what there was on Shepherd.

I am enclosing some very interesting facts, I think, on the result of a day at Yorktown. As you see, I hardly scratched the surface, for I had to hunt that John Camp will without the benefit of index, except in the volume which the will was recorded. I found the other notes while hunting the will, for the most part.

I pick up the Camps in Norfolk city, John and William, also George, by 1796, so there must be more of them between 1788 and the Norfolk date, in the York records. Likewise there may be something of them before 1753. You should be the judge of whether I shall pursue this.

The enclosed Whiddon notes make your line very clear through Capt. John. The instrument whereby Capt. John gave certain things to the children of Cawson is by no means a will, as Mr. McIntosh makes it, but rather a deed to the children of Abigail Church Cawson-Whiddon, whom John had recently married and whom perhaps he was establishing in the county, or making some settlement between them and their mother's dower from her husband, and their father Jonas Cawson, deceased in 1726. This John Whiddon's will is the one of 1748. The dates on all the writings fit perfectly, as do names &c...

The Keeling lines are the most intricate I have ever attempted to unravel, even more involved are the Adams, the Williams, the Johns, of the Keelings then the Joels and Henrys of the Cornicks. I think I will have a solution before long and that will be accurate and will stand any test.

Does the Argall in the Church children pique you? Ann Anne Church married Argall Thorowgood; the daughter of Ann Trevathan married Thomas Thorowgood (Ann Trevathan was a Church); the Thorowgoods are the only ones in Princess Anne that had the name Argall, and they came by it through Frances Yardley, of Argall Yeardley, who married the second Adam Thorowgood. I wonder what the connection is?

There is nothing further to tell you on the Langley. There is a Land-Langley marriage, but it is an Elizabeth Langley, I think of Thomas who married perhaps a Fee. And by the way I have not yet attempted to find out who Mary Ann Land was. I thought it best to finish up some of the lines already under way. It may be in doing them I shall turn up her maiden name.

Miss Sallie tells me your family got happily away on Monday, and that Mrs. Shepherd is much better. Of this I am glad.

I shall be glad to have you indicate your wishes about any of the enclosed matter and how we shall follow up, if at all. No where do I find "de" before the Camp, and they were surely here before the Revolution. The Yorktown facts must tie up the Camps here in Norfolk. Also there is much of Massenburg in contemporary York Records.

Sincerely yours,

Sadie Scott Kellam

While at school 1693/4 in Lancaster England he lived with Mr. Thomas Westmore and knew Jonas Cawson who went to free school in Lancaster Church yard. Jonathan Cawson and another brother went to private school with Newton..he remembered their father but not his Christian name. When Newton came home from England Jonas Cawson came to Virginia and five years later married Abigail Church.. Christopher Cawson is their eldest son.

Original Will of John Corprew Sr., in Lower Norfolk County, made in 1741, naming sons John, Jonathan, Joshua, Matthew, William, Thomas, Samuel, duaghter Eleanor Peyton, wife Mary Corprew.

(This is evidently the father of the Joshua Corprew whose daughter Mary married John Whiddon, the father of Ann Peters-Camp. Think of this in connection with Princess Anne D.B.16, page 10, in 1779, wherein John and Mary Whiddon transfer lot at Newtown, formerly the property of Elizabeth Nicholas one time wife of John Whiddon. It seems to me we should determine if possible whether the daughters of John Whiddon were by the first or second marriage. There are points in favor of each as the matter now stands.)

These are unindexed, and by no means complete. There are no Parish Records prior to 1800. There have been fires in Hampton at the time of each war.

NOTE: From these fragmentary records it seemed a difficult undertaking to reconstruct a line for the Massenburg family. However, I perservered, and picked up a clue in an unindexed book in Norfolk which, when pursued proves conclusively that MASSENBURG is an ex cursus, althogether collateral, while John Camp married Ann Whiddon, the widow Peters, sister to Martha Massenburg.

SAWYER

From John Frederick Dorman
2311 Connecticut Ave., N.W.
Washington, D. C.

31 May 1957

After going over the material which you sent me I believe there is a good chance that an F.F.V. line from Thomas Sa (w)yer can be established. Several of the abstracts you have are not quite so full as I should like and I want to check the originals of these before giving a final opinion. However, since I am leaving for Kentucky tomorrow and will be gone about three weeks, I want to give you as much information as I can now.

I see nothing to stand in the way of an assumption that the Thomas Sawyer who was at Warwick Squeake (that is, at Warisquoacke or the present Isle of Wight area) in 1623 and as Thomas Sawier aged 23 was at James City in the muster of 1625, was the same Thomas Sa(w)yer who is in the later Norfolk County records. A number of the other F.F.V. lines stand on no better identification than this and in the absence of most of the early records we must assume that references to the same name are to the same man unless there is a contradiction in the records.

The fact that Thomas Sawyer had a wife Frances when he patented land in 1637 and that Thomas Sayer left a widow Elizabeth should not be cause for concern provided the Norfolk records clearly show that Sawyer and Sayer are one and the same. I am not yet entirely certain from the abstracts that you have sent me that this has been established, but I am inclined to agree with you that it is true.

I think there is no reason to doubt that Abigail, the wife of Jonas Cawson and John Whiddon, was the daughter of Richard Church. The deposition of Mrs. Abigal Moseley states she was Abigail Church and Mrs. Ann Trevathan, who is a proved daughter of Richard Church, makes a statement regarding the marriage.

It is not clear to me, however, whether Richard Church (Abigail's father) was the son or the husband of Mary (Sayer) Church. If there was only the one Richard Church, who married Mary Sayer and later Elizabeth...., we cannot be certain which wife was Abigail's mother. If Abigail's father can be established as Richard Church Jr. son of Richard and Mary (Sayer) Church, there is no doubt of the descent from Thomas Sa(w)yer.

There should be some study of the land involved in the various deeds of Richard Church in Lower Norfolk County. From the brief references I am inclined to believe that these deeds will show conclusively that there were two men of the name, one older and the other younger, in Lower Norfolk around 1690.

I am also somewhat disturbed by the will of John Whiddon (1748059, Norfolk County) which, according to the abstract, omits reference to his son John. It is this John of the will who had a wife Abigail. There is the 1759 deed in Norfolk County by which John Whiddon and wife Mary sold land which fell unto John as heir at law by descent from Capt. John Whiddon, which shows that your John Whiddon (1730-1796) was the son of Capt. John Whiddon. But I cannot see how the will of John Whiddon (1748-50) could be admitted as a valid will if he did not make provision for his son and heir at law.

I should like to look further into the deed of gift which Capt. John Whiddon made in 1729 to his Cawson step-children. I assume this was to settle their father's estate, which he had succeeded to when he married their mother, upon the children equally. I note that John Whiddon, Jr., witnessed this deed. If from the examination of the original sources it proves true that John Whiddon of the 1748-50 will cannot be the father of your John (1730-1796) for the reasons concerning the validity of wills omitting the heir at law which I have mentioned above, I would assume that the John Whiddon, Jr. of the Whiddon-Cawson deed of gift was the father of your John (1730-1796). This will, however, in all probability cut off your descent from the Church and Sayer families.

I will not be able to examine all of these points in detail in the time (about three hours) remaining from the $20.00 check which you sent. I think the Whiddon problem is the crucial one. On my next trip to Richmond, which will probably be early in July, I shall see what I can determine from the records. I cannot guarantee to go very far in three hours, however, when the problem is such a complicated one - unless I should discover immediately that my doubts are unfounded.

If you should care to have me carry through the search in more detail, I think that I can make considerable progress in the time covered by a check for $50.00. Should my deductions made from incomplete abstracts be entirely wrong, I will refund the unexpended portion to you.

I hope I am completely wrong in my questioning of the Whiddon connections.

With all good wishes, I am, Sincerely yours, J. Fred Dorman
